WARNING

KNOW YOUR CURRENT RADIO LAWS, TREATIES, RULES AND REGULATIONS.

Do not operate any radio transmitter which is required to be licensed by the FCC, unless such operation is authorized by a valid FCC radio station license or special temporary authorization. Operation of an unlicensed radio transmitter is a violation of Section 301 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, and is punishable by fine and/or imprisonment.

As the holder of this license, you are responsible for any improper transmitter operation resulting from adjustments, modifications, or repairs performed by you or under your supervision.

As a licensed operator, it is illegal for you to:

- willfully interfere with any radio communication or signal.
- transmit false or deceptive signals or communications by radio.
- falsely identify a radio station by transmitting a call sign which has not been assigned by proper authority to that station.
- transmit unidentified radio communications or signals.
- transmit obscene, indecent, or profane words by radio.
- transmit unnecessary radio communications or signals.
- alter or duplicate this license.
- help someone else obtain or try to obtain a commercial radio operator license from the FCC by fraudulent means.
- willfully damage any radio equipment in any licensed radio station.
- refuse to obey the lawful orders of the person lawfully in charge of any ship on which you are employed as a radio operator.
- without authorization, divulge, publish, or use for your benefit or the benefit of another not entitled thereto, the existence, contents, substance, purport, effect, or meaning of any interstate or foreign communications by radio, other than broadcasts intended for the use of the general public, or messages relating to ships in distress.
